Mrs. Iverson's Unfortunate Plight

Are the patients paid for by the town in the hospital managed by Mrs. Harris receiving proper treatment?

That was the problem which a special meeting of the council tried to solve on Thursday morning. The mayor, Mr. Bowen, Mayor and Councillors Holmes, McAlister and Billerbeck were present. It seems that a number of helles including Madam Cook, Hillerdal, Larson and Torgeson complained to the mayor that Mrs. Iverson, who has been a charge on the town for some time, has not been receiving adequate attention. Mrs. Iverson is unfortunate victim of the small pox plague and is now confined to her bed, no care being provided for by Mrs. Harris at the towns expense. The complaints made to the mayor sum up were about as follows:

Not enough food to eat, and not cooked sufficiently.

Dishes left in the tent unwashed and the dogs entered and licked them clean.

Sputum cup black with flies.

Woman hair matted so badly through inattention that it had to be cut off.

Not sufficiently clothed.

Medicine only given once a day, sometimes not at all.

Dr. Learn, medical health officer, said that the woman was probably neglected because she was a charge on so many patients in the hospital. Mrs. Harris was pressed for time. She had been unable to get a domestic and three of the patients had to be bathed every two hours to keep temperatures down. It was easily seen how difficult a task was. She had no water part of the time and had to go miles from Mr. Ridley's well. She has no telephone and no one to do her shopping. He thought the most of the complaints emanated from one quarter and thought the town should allow some time of Mrs. Iverson's friends to look after her. The tent is too cold at nights now and Mrs. Iverson will get pneumonia if she stays there. The town might take possession of it. He said there were lots of better nurses than Mrs. Harris but considering everything, she did well and it was mighty hard to have a place to send these cases to.

The Curfew Bell

The curfew by-law which was passed recently by council was put into operation and the bell was rung for the first time on Monday. By the by-law all children must be off the streets before 9 o'clock at night and between the first of May and the first day of November. Between November and May they must be in their homes by eight o'clock. The town policemen are empowered to enforce the by-law and are made the sole judges of the age, or appearance of any person found on the streets after dark. Any person who persists in going home refuses the police have the power to conduct them home and if they are not disposed to go, peaceably he can then take them to the town lock up, or mounting police barracks and next morning they will appear before the magistrate who may impose as high a fine as $100.00.

They who do not hold the law in sufficient respect to co-operate in its enforcement. The success of the by-law remains with the police and parents. The police should do as the law empowers them and parents should co-operate by keeping a strong moral influence over their children. It is not good for children to run about the streets after dark. They learn no good and are apt as not to get into evil ways. Curfew by-laws are enacted at by-some as good. They are useful just to the extent in which they are enforced.

Mrs. H. P. Olund will receive for the first time since her marriage on Tuesday afternoon Sept. 6th from 4 to 6. Her sister Mrs. Keast will be there with her.

The council objected to one of the patients at present in residence being there at the towns expense claiming he had friends quite capable of looking after him.

The mayor said it looked as if the hospital is being made a dumping ground for those who wished to escape the expense of maintaining themselves.

It was alleged that the family of one man complained of was in dire need and could not possibly look after the sick husband and father. In reference to the charges about Mrs. Iverson it was claimed that the town had no responsibility for educating her but if old clothes were meant for her she could not be expected to wear them and comfortable. As regards the irregularity in giving medicine Councillor Bowen said the woman is apparently doing well on it as she is better than she was.

Dr. Learn said she is better now than when she went in but in answer to a question said she couldn't recover and would not probably survive the Spring. He knew the dishes were washed every day, the soap and antiseptics were used and he forbade Mrs. Harris taking them into the house. As regards flies in the cup it is kept saturated with carbolic acid and he didn't think flies would thrive on that.

Mr. Holmes said while there was some cause for complaint he thought it was a case of neglect rather than indifference.

On Saturday evening Councillor Bowen said she was very unapproachable of any thing that is done for her.

The result of the discussion was a resolution to try and see if some family without dependents would take her and her child into their home.

A suggestion that she be sent to the town was not favorably received. The unfortunate woman has two little children living with Mrs. Cook and it was thought they should be left what little property their mother owns.

Dr. Learn and Councillor Holmes were engaged to look after a place for her and it is hoped that the remainder of Mrs. Iverson's days will be free from cause for annoyance.

Mrs. Harris has now secured a telephone in the hospital.

The Late Mrs. McAlister

Mrs. W. W. McAlister who had been illing for some time passed away in the Holy Cross Hospital Calgary on Sunday last. She had gone into the hospital on Aug. 1st and was on an operation when the doctors ascertained that she was a sufferer from cancer in a malignant form and decided that the operation would only hasten the end. It was thought she might live for some time but on Saturday she took a sudden turn for the worse and died Sunday morning. Her son, Mr. W. W. McAlister arrived on Monday accompanied by her son Alred. The funeral took place yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Thursday Rev. P. Henderson officiating. The maiden name of deceased was Bellman's School. She was born Dec. 1st, 1851 at Odraun, Austria. In 1884 she emigrated to the United States with her husband Alfred E. Emma Helen (Mrs. E. C. Payne), William Henry, Frank E., and May Elizabeth. She is also survived by her son, Mr. W. W. McAlister School in the motherland and Louis living at Tapton, N. D. The sympathy of many friends is extended to the bereaved family.

A COUP ON POVERTY.

It Was a Plan That Worked to a Charm.

By LLOYD LOGAN.

"It is miserably true, my dear Marie, that we have to live modestly. We have to give up our clothes, umbrellas and parasols. She said to be a maid in a great family did not compare with her self respect as an independent woman. Her mother disconsolately threw her head over the window seat.

"I am in Vergne was looking over hills at the exercises. Without answering her daughter, she buried her face in her arms and wept."

"We are bleeding now," sang Antoinette, the other daughter, as she came down the hill and entered the room.

"I am very ill," she added pleasantly, "that I am the last rose."

She was standing in the music room, library and drawing room, making no sound. When Madeline de la Vergne looked up, so absorbed were they with their own thoughts.

"Pere is waiting the door in the library," she continued. "He is horribly as Marie's husband says soon on store. We see, first, what our assets are." Antoinette bent up her pretty white hand to count the coins in her purse. "Our Dugars as her mother told them off."

"Dear heart, our most valuable asset is our name, our name, that hardly has a money value."

"I am not so sure," mused Antoinette. "There are a host of poor good people who would be very happy to be a guest at our home, to be able to speak with familiarity of our backgrounds."

Antoinette, sitting on an ottoman by her mother's feet, clasped her hands around her knees and thought, writing with smooth white brow-in penitence.

The men who take holidays, and the' women who do not, are in a very different order. The former spend the greater portion of their lives endeavoring to make a success, while the latter succeed in making a business of pleasure. Vacations are their way of life.

King among the small company of holiday-makers is Sir Harry Llewellyn, who, with his wife, the new knight, has caused such general satisfaction. For almost twenty years he has been the most popular feature of every holiday season, and has made holidays in the most literal sense.

"This house was sold positively that this house will be the next thing to go. Now, we have many beautiful pieces of furniture, but to me they are not so real that they are very good, charming associations that make the stay a greater value. You and I, dearest, will be the ones to sell them, and we will do so on what we would be willing to sell and gather them together in the music room, library and drawing room, mix them up, and then sell them off."

"That will apparently give them a greater value," she said.

Madame dramatically clasped her hands.

"You do not mean we would sell our belongings to a vulgar mob like the tradepeople who are cried in terror."

"No, we would sell a little, but not much, or not very often. Pere could wear the lace lace, and the lace scarf thrown over your shoulders would not be worth gold to him; we made out her tea cups and saucers, and I the white chiffon with black veins."

"Then," she continued, "we would invite a choice few, thirty perhaps, more or less. Believe me, they will stay longer than a week to receive an audience."

"The first entertainment planned by the De la Vergne's. See, mother, using our asset No. 1, our family name, we have the best house in town, some that are very comfortable rooms."

"We are going back to New Orleans. We are distressed about our collection of antiques. We have to sell them and articles of such value we really cannot afford."

"Lord Goshen is glad to want half of my offer, but I would like to dispense of a few, but cannot bear the thought of parting with them. They are people's art, as it were, keeping them."

Antoinette was so delighted with the idea she danced all over the room in a rage.

"Antoinette, going to her mother, but her arm round her shoulder, "I'd be a help, ma chere!"

"Antoinette, what could you do—your daughter, Madeline, Antoinette de la Vergne, the great-granddaughter of Vittorio Casanova, who was one of the heads of a house to Marie Antoinette, who had a great influence in negotiations. This is just one more. The first trial was when we lost our fortune in France. Madeline always used to say, 'She was not acknowledgeable with a gumbier, even though a gentleman.' The little princess was a matter of great respect."

"She was a princess, but she died in New Orleans. Since you have arranged for us to live in this cradle grave in Florida, we will be safe there as a postulant, losing thousands at a single game."

Other women, elusive,uring her days, were the secret of her success. Her secret was he cannot touch without my signature; it has come down directly through my family."

"I am sorry, where we shall live," she continued. "I have been struggling to make a comfortable dwelling for myself, and the house will not fit, 'tis a pure disgruntled fury."

The debutante Auguste de la Vergne tripped lightly into the room, chin up, with a smile of exultation, and a look of correct naivete.

With the perfect savoir faire of a Frenchman he kissed his wife's forehead. Going over to the piano, he stepped out on the veranda. With the utmost sang-froid he turned, waving by hand.

"All ready, and passed out on the shelf behind me."

He had clung, iron-willed, to the youth of his life, though it was his duty to know that age and weight press maturity on his bone. After a fashion he loved his wife and daughters. He would have been proud to have them as his daughters, but that was theirs for generations. They had ceased to be interested in these dreams. They will naturally be disappointed when we tell them his pretensions and when they talk about ideals without any actual account."

"I can do something," Antoinette repeated, with gentle emphasis. "His chisel, we will take care of stock."

HOLIDAY-MAKERS IN ENGLAND.

Men Who Take Holidays and Men Who Don't.

Holiday-makers are so common as one is apt, at first blush, to imagine; for when we mention "holiday" we mean a vacation, but that we really mean, but "holiday-takers."

The men who take holidays, and the' women who do not, are in a very different order. The former spend the greater portion of their lives endeavoring to make a success, while the latter succeed in making a business of pleasure. Vacations are their way of life.

King among the small company of holiday-makers is Sir Harry Llewellyn, who, with his wife, the new knight, has caused such general satisfaction. For almost twenty years he has been the most popular feature of every holiday season, and has made holidays in the most literal sense.

"Curiously enough," Sir Harry told an interviewee, "the first year I spent here, I had to pay my passage, but the second year, entirely reversed the principle on which I worked."

Conferences, which were the beginning of my tourist campaign. My first conference was with the man who paid me. I am not so sure," mused Antoinette, "that this house will be the next thing to go. Now, we have many beautiful pieces of furniture, but to me they are not so real that they are very good, charming associations that make the stay a greater value. You and I, dearest, will be the ones to sell them, and we will do so on what we would be willing to sell and gather them together in the music room, library and drawing room, mix them up, and then sell them off."

Matrimonial Advertisement

A Kansas newspaper recently contained the following matrimonial ad:

"A gentleman possessing a large amount of wealth, with the title of Baron, which he recently received, is anxious to find a young woman, the acquaintance of a young man bearing the same initials, with whom he may be able to marry him."

Misses' Liniment Cures Diphtheria.

"Miss, my sir, what would you be asking my wife to remove her hat? I assure you I can see a thing on."

"I'd like to oblige you, sir, but it's impossible," said the man addressed, "to get out of town without getting home tonight."

"What has that got to do with it?" asked the man.

"We're going to be married at length. I'll take me three good weeks."

Quite an unexpected incident happened at the time of Queen Victoria's Diamond Jubilee. Three steamers—the Argonaut, the Aragon, and Koh-Noor—for the great naval review, were to be present. The first steamship arrived before the eventual Saturday day.

Indeed that only a handful of people were to be present on board the Koh-Noor, named vessel. Almost at the same moment I learned that Lord Goshen had come to town, and that he was making arrangements for a visit to the review.

"I'd like to oblige you, sir, but it's impossible," said the man addressed, "to get out of town without getting home tonight."

"What has that got to do with it?" asked the man.

"We're going to be married at length. I'll take me three good weeks."

Misses' Liniment Cures Diphtheria.

"How now are we in the park, shall we take a stroll alone? Lovers! Lane?—She—I think I would prefer the bridal path."

"$5 bill is good only as far as it goes."

The uniqueness of Mother Grimes' Worm Exterminator puts it beyond reach of all, and it can be got at any drugstore.

It is said that at least one man or woman who reaches seventy years of age has had two years of sickness or death.

To-day medical experts are studying how to avoid this and the general opinion is that the worm should be used to keep the blood rich, red and healthy by taking such treatment as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

There are always plenty of indications when you when the blood is not working well, when the nerves are exhausted.

When you are tired, both mentally and bodily, you feel down-hearted and disengaged, digestion fails you, you feel like a dead leaf, and become irritable and easily annoyed.

In this condition you easily contract colds, pneumonia or fever, and when you take Mother Grimes' Worm Food you will find that the blood were rich and the body in vigorous health.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has proven an enormous benefit, because of its power to keep the vital organs healthy and thereby overcome weakness and disease.

50 cts. a box, all dealers or Elmanon, Bates & Co., Toronto.

He was only in bed twice in seventeen days having to sleep in his car at night on either earth. A firewood which is expected to prove effectual has been cut from the fork of the Old Man river to the High River.

There is a lot of stock being shipped out these days. Certainly the impression that no stock is raised on the farms of the South is receiving a severe jolt. On Monday Priest and Walls shipped four cars of cattle to Vancouver and a double decker of veal calves. On Tuesday they shipped two cars of logs to Victoria. Sixty pairs of cattle were here yesterday 31 lots being paid for butcher steak and 2 1/2 for cows and heifers. Hogs are selling at 53 4 cents. The mines are improving the feed prospects splendidly and the market is likely to respond.

Miss Penton of Hanley, Sask., has taken a position in the post office here. She has had five years experience in post office work and Mrs. Simpson is to be congratulated in securing such an addition to an organization as this post office. While continuing the post office it might be appropriate to express the appreciation of the public of the Saturday night service the distribution of the 92 cent mail giving boxholders a chance to get their papers and other mail for Sunday reading. It is not required by the regulations and the courtesy of the postmaster is all the more appreciated as a consequence.

The poverty soul on Tuesday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Bernadine under the auspices of the Ladies Aid society of the Methodist church was a jolly success. The rain which fell in welcome showers that day had no deterrent effect. In fact it helped. Everyone was so pleased to see old Jupiter friends in real action again they were to the service a great fun.

There was fun, games and some in carnival array. There was fun, gaiety and everyone spent a decidedly pleasant evening. Two prizes were given, one for the "best" dressed man and one for the lady best representing poverty. The prize for the lady was given by Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Quayle and that for the man given by Mrs. Quayle was won by Mr. Wick. The judges were Mrs. Crabbie, North Augusta, Ont., and Mr. Moffatt here.

The Odd Fellows at their lodges on Monday night after regular routine then open the doors and brethren and invited guests convened in a social gathering, the feature of which was saying formal farewell to Mr. K. F. Ferguson, Mr. Ferguson has been a faithful and zealous Noble Grand there was considerable increase in membership. His leaving is therefore all the more regretted by Foot hill Lodge. During the evening Mr. W. C. Bowen read an address in which he appealed to the members to be more generous and more generous and expressed his appreciation and presented Mr. Ferguson with a past grand's jewel. The recipient fittingly acknowledged the honor and expressed his regret at having to sever relations of so pleasant a character. Others added their tributes and Mr. Ferguson is fully assured that he carries with him the best wishes for future prosperity and happiness joined with the hope that he may some day come back again.

"THE THIRD PARTY."

Hon. Peter Mitchell was a Bohemian of a Long Disappeared School.

The last of the series of disastrous fires which have recently taken place in Montreal has been caused by the carelessness of a Montreal Herald reporter who for years has contributed a weekly page of comment to The News and Eastern Townships Advocate of St. John's, Quebec. Particular reference is made to Hon. Peter Mitchell, M.P., one of the Herald's famous editorial writers, and author of "The Third Party." Of Mitchell the writer says:

"Upon the scene then, entered the late Sir Peter Mitchell, on Beaver Hall Hill, where The Herald, phoenix-like, had risen from the ashes.

"Now, if ever the true Bohemian visited that planet, he did so in the person of Hon. Peter Mitchell.

"When one thinks of the spaciousness of the man; his charming sense of humour; his frankness; his dash; his wit and powers of satire, but his childlike innocence upon issues; his childlike innocence upon issues; his inheritance; his personal magnetism; his knowledge of the duties of management; his ingenuity in delusion in the notion that he was in reality, playing the dashing rôle of a Bohemian, he will realize that he was, in reality, playing the dash-plate rôle of a boorish Conservative at Ottawa that we had all eyes for him.

"The 'Silkeden' incident which earned the Emperor of Russia, 'that it was more clever if he looks as if he is going to be liberal.'

"INSIGHTLY COMPLEXIONS.

The constant use of CLEUREX Soap, as used by Cutlers, Druggists, Tailors, hair and beauty purveyors, not only preserves, purifies and beautifies the skin, seals hair and protects against the common irritants and clogging of the pores, the common cause of acne, rashes, eruptions, redness and roughness, yellow, oily, mottled and other unwholesome conditions of the skin, a clear, soft white hands, a clean wholesome soap, hair gloss and Ointment most successful in removing every expectation.

"Would you," he asked, "ever live to be a hundred years old?"

"If I could only know it," she replied.

Little Johnny—"Say, mister?"

"Well?"

Little Johnny—"Who crossed your eyes instead of dotting them?"

LACK OF PURE BLOOD

The Cause of Most Illnesses—

—Lack of Pure Blood Supply.

Any illness caused by lack of blood will be benefited by the use of a course of treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pill is the greatest red restorer in the blood and enable it to carry every organ and tissue to a maximum of oxygen.

It is the great supplier of all organic life. This has been proved by Dr. Williams' Pink Pill not only in Canada but in all parts of the world. More people today owe their health and happiness to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills than to any other medicine. One of these is Mr. James Star, of New York.

"A few years ago I became ill and very weak. Some days I would have a hard day and the next other days I would be bathed in a cold sweat. I grew weaker and weaker until I could do no kind of work. I was finally confined to my bed. I tried several doctors, but they told me nothing, and still told me no good, as I was still getting weaker and weaker. I asked my wife to get Dr. Williams to come to me to tell me frankly if he could cure me, and he told me my case was so complicated that he could not help me. He could help me. I told him I had heard a great deal about Dr. Williams' Pink Pill, and he said, 'I think they would help me.' His reply was, 'Yes, they will do you no harm.' So I took the pink pills.

I sent for a half dozen boxes at once and began taking them. After taking them for three weeks, I was so strong that they helped me, and I continued using them for some time longer, with the result that I am now as strong and hearty and can do as good a day's work as any man in my neighborhood."

These Pills are sold by all druggists and can be had by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ontario.

Tourists—If suppose tourists often talk like this: "Ness, nice Herry; never more than once."

"Pa, what is a dentif?"

"A dentist, my son, is a man who uses other people's teeth to feed himself."

Only Last Two
Doctor, how many times have you operated for appendicitis?"

"Oh, at least fifty times. I should say."

"And how many cases have you lost?"

"Only two. One of them went into bankruptcy and the other died with me leaving a dollar."

On the noted board of a church in Manchester, England, lay the following announcement: appeared together: A potato pie supper will be given to the Conservative Association of Ottawa at that we had all eyes for him.

The "Silkeden" incident which earned the Emperor of Russia, "that it was more clever if he looks as if he is going to be liberal."

It is Wise to Prevent Disease.—

Many causes lead to disorders of the body. The first manifestation that we notice is that the stomach and liver are not performing their functions well. Dr. Williams' Vegetable Pills should be tried, and it will be found that the digestive organs are working well.

Laxatives and sedatives are so blended in these pills that they are not inclined to overdo.

To see Sir Peter saluting forth, in the winter, enveloped from head to foot in a heavy coat, with the cynosure of the general regard at the St. Lawrence Hall, where he was to speak, is to witness a sight to observe the entire delight of the large crowd in life, in the past. Vegetable Pills should be tried, and it will be found that the digestive organs are working well.

The Best for the Boys

The high class institution for boys, Western Canada College, Calgary, has just closed another very successful year. The school has now opened its doors as the first incorporated College in what are now the Provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan. The attendance has steadily grown, and now with a total registration of nearly 130, it stands out as the largest institution West of the Great Lakes.

The staff has steadily increased from two to three, to four, to five, to six regular masters, for it is the aim of the College to have one master for every twenty boys.

At the moment of writing, the boys are engaged on College and University examinations at McGill, Toronto, Alberta and Manitoba. Here too, the College has had a very creditable and successful year; seven of the candidates having come very near the top among six and seven hundred boys.

Each year the College has taken for itself a large number of kids to take up residence in the dormitory, whether it be for the summer months, when reports being received of their progress.

The College has achieved success because, as the boys themselves testify, they are made to work.

Great care is taken with the discipline, the training, the preparation of boys.

In the coming year it is the intention to increase the number of students taking up residence, in order to give them constant and same time training in Military Drill and general Athletics.

The College has excellent opportunities for all this, as well as other lines of work.

There are three separate buildings, a large school building, a gymnasium, and a residence building, excellent grounds, on which are tennis courts, cricket pitch and football spaces.

During the present summer further improvements are to be made, that the different buildings may be more commodious and more comfortable. Accordingly, the management has purchased a new property just outside the centre of the city. Here in two or three years, the very best buildings for a residential College and all the requirements, will be erected.

The E. L. Eaton, Sec'y.

Enjoyable Song Service

The song service conducted in the Methodist church Sunday evening by George Craib of North Augusta, Ont., was one of great interest and was enjoyed by a large audience.

The Rev. gentleman took several of the best known hymns such as "Jesus Lover of my Soul", "One sweetly Solemn Thought", "Lead Kindly Light" and "Abide with Me" and related the composition, giving a brief sketch of the authorship, and drawing vivid deductions from the teachings.

At the close of each sketch the hymn was sung by the congregation. "One sweetly Solemn Thought" was sung as a quartette by Mrs. Craib, Miss Hippin and Messrs. Walsh and Roots, with the organ accompaniment.

Mr. Craib is a most splendid public speaker and the services conducted here will long be remembered as particularly bright and helpful.

Important Announcement

Having bought the Economy Feed and sales stable and livery and driving business from E. L. Eaton, I will shortly assume control of the business accorded my predecessor and hope by up-to-date management to win a largely increased patronage.

We will keep the best of road horses and equipment and travellers and towns people requiring a smart livery service are assured of the best in patronizing us.

Farmers are guaranteed the best of attention for their horses at our feed stables and moderate charges.

We will continue the driving business and hope to promote and increase business to give the public men the services they have been looking for. The stables will be under expert management and all departments will be right up to the minute.
